NEWS RELEASE

SIXTH STREET AT CONSTITUTION AVENUE NW WASHINGTON DC 20565 • 737-4215 extension 224

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

WASHINGTON, D.C. March 15, 1966. A highlight of the National Gallery of Art's 25th Anniversary celebration on Thursday (March 17) will be the opening of an exhibition of 19th and 20th century French paintings, water colors and drawings from the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Mellon and Mrs. Mellon Bruce.

A majority of the Impressionist and Post-Impressionist pictures have not been exhibited to the U. S. public before, including paintings by Manet, Degas, Cézanne, van Gogh, Cassatt, Renoir, Picasso, and Gauguin.

A 12-room wing of the National Gallery was necessary to accommodate the combined collections of 248 pictures.

John Rewald, the Impressionist authority who prepared the fully illustrated catalogue, said the group of nine "superb" Manets in the exhibition is "absolutely unique in any private collection today."

Of even greater rarity, he added, are the dozen paintings by Georges Seurat. This group includes a landmark painting, Lighthouse at Honfleur. It is the last important canvas by the master of Pointillism, Professor Rewald believes, that can ever come to America from Europe. He explained that all the others are now in public collections or have been promised to them.

John Walker, Director of the National Gallery of Art, said "Mr. and Mrs. Paul Mellon and Mrs. Mellon Bruce have been particularly generous in making this loan since most of the paintings come from their homes and a nail on the wall with nothing hanging from it is particularly bleak.

"While the exhibition is on loan the visitor can see at the Gallery in the rooms devoted to 19th century French painting one of the most comprehensive assemblages ever brought together under one roof. For example there will be on view 32 works by Boudin, 22 Pissarros, 20 Manets, 36 Degas, 22 Cézannes, 22 Monets, 12 Morisots, 33 Renoirs, 13 Cassatts, 15 Gauguins, 14 van Goghs, 15 Seurats, 13 Toulouse-Lautrecs, 17 Bonnards, 27 Vuillards and 16 Picassos."

The dates of the 25th Anniversary Exhibition are March 18 through May 1.

A checklist of the exhibition is attached.

Color transparencies, black-and-white photographs and catalogues for purposes of publication may be requested from William W. Morrison, Assistant to the Director, National Gallery of Art, Washington, D.C. Area code 202, 737-4215, ext. 225.
